HEADTEACHER CHALLENGE

IN THIS ISSUE

Mr Scott-Evans writes:

Have a Happy Healthy Holiday

We are halfway through the year and I would like to remind students in the lower school of my Head Teacher's Challenges. I wrote these when we opened the school as lists of edifying pursuits to stretch and develop students in a variety of ways.

You can find all the details at the back of the Family Handbook available here.

The idea is for students to complete as many of these challenges as possible. As a guide: Stage 1 is for students in Year 6, Stage 2 is for those in Year 7 and Stage 3 is for those in Year 8. However, the lists provide a good foundation for anyone looking for something different to do outside of typical phone/console based pursuits.

Some of my favourites are:

- Learning to say 'hello', 'please' and 'thank you' in multiple languages
- Going to see original art
- Visiting museums and landmarks
- Writing to relatives
- Litter picking
- Trying new foods
- Going to a charity shop and paying double
- Read a prayer or the Bible at a church service
- Learn to do a magic trick
- Go to the library
- Sketch
- Read a classic novel by Dickens
- Start a vegetable garden

.....contd. on page 2

- Practise language skills:
www.duolingo.com
- Go for a walk, run or bike ride
- Use

for mathematics practice

I would love to see and hear about what students are doing. You can update me via Twitter on @MrScottEvans or you can send me an email (preferably with pictures!) via office@becketkeys.org. I am sure that we would all love to see what students have been doing when we return next week.

Whatever you choose to do and wherever you choose to go – I pray that you all have a happy and healthy holiday.

God bless.

Rotary Creative Writing Competition Success!

For many years the Rotary club has organised locally and sponsored the Rotary National Competition "Youth Speaks". This year they have introduced the 'Young Writer competition' where the idea is to encourage young people to use their writing skills and write with imagination and creativity. The theme this year was the environment- students could write prose, poetry, fiction or non-fiction based around this.

ROTARY YOUTH SPEAKS COMPETITION

I was very proud to see how many of our students entered and this was something that was noted by the organisers, too. I had the pleasure to read all of our entries before sending them off and was very impressed by the level of creativity shown. All participants will receive a certificate from the organisers.

Becket Keys clearly made an impression on the competition's judges as we placed both 1st and 2nd for the intermediate and senior categories for the Brentwood stage of the competition!

Rotary Young Writer

A writing competition for young people

Congratulations to: Lowri Cole and Jamie Hancox who placed 1st in their category. Their entries will now be put forward for the District competition and each will receive a £30 Amazon voucher.

Congratulations to: Adam Mahoney and Elizabeth Thompson who placed 2nd in their category and will each receive a £20 Amazon voucher.

And finally, congratulations to Joshua Driver and Callum Etchells who the judges felt deserved a special mention as they did extremely well!

Kwame Mbalia and Prince Joel Makonnen

Yared's Uncle Moti moves them around frequently so when Yared gives his real name during an augmented reality game, he doesn't think the soldiers that arrive are after him. But they are. And everything he believed about his life turns out to be a lie...including his identity. Yared partners with another game player, the Ibis, to escape the troops and the giant monster and find the truth. The two clever, quick-witted kids face incredible danger, insurmountable odds, and a galaxy-spanning war but Yared has been trained for this and he is ready to fight. Set in a futuristic Ethiopian empire, this exciting adventure grabs your interest and keeps it through wild twists and turns that feature heroic main characters!

'Glitch' Laura Martin

In this world, some people have the genetic ability to time travel. Regan is one of those people. Like all kids with this ability, she's required to train as a Glitcher so as teens and adults, they'll be ready to stop the bad guys from interfering with historical events. She gets an illegal message from her future self that she could go to jail for— and starts to suspect that things aren't as they seem. Then, she and her nemesis, another kid called Elliot, get sent to a secret partner programme. ## Food Department

This week in Food Technology, the Key Stage 3 groups have been doing their end of unit assessments.

The Year 7 task was to make some bread, and they were all given the recipe to practise for a week prior to the assessment lesson.

They looked at which ingredients could be added to enhance their bread, and different shaping methods to introduce pieces with more appeal and complexity.

Many types of bread were produced, including plaits, twists, cheesy centres, and sweet breads. You can see the many different recipes in the pictures.

I was extremely impressed by the effort and amount of work that went into the final loaves, and all the students should be proud of what they made.

Free School Meal Vouchers Lent Holiday

In order to continue to support our families entitled to Free School Meals during the Lent Holiday, we will be using the school voucher system, Wonde, to issue vouchers.

The email will contain a link to 'redeem a voucher'. You will be taken to Wonde's 'evouchers' page (previously named Schoolvouchers), where you will need to enter your details and confirm your email address before being asked to select the retailer you wish to receive a voucher for. ## Book of the Month - February

Dylan was six when The End came; when the electricity went off for good, and the 'normal' 21st century world he knew disappeared. Now he's 14 and he and his mam have worked to survive in their isolated hilltop house above the village of Nebo in north-west Wales, learning new skills, and returning to old ways of living. Despite their close understanding, the relationship between mother and son changes subtly as Dylan must take on adult responsibilities. What mam misses, Dylan has no use for, being perfectly adapted to the new world and his place in it. And they each have their own secrets, which emerge as, in turn, they jot down their thoughts and memories in a found notebook - the Blue Book of Nebo.

In this tender and tragic prize-winning novel, Manon Steffan Ros not only explores the human capacity to find new strengths when faced with the need to survive in a post-apocalyptic world, but also questions the structures of the contemporary one.

The art of simple living

If there is one thing most of us aspire to, it is simply to be happy. Kate Humble write about her book 'A Year of Living Simply – My journey from complexity to contentment':

'This isn't about living a life of penury, devoid of joy or fun – quite the opposite. It is about finding, or rediscovering, the aspects of life that really matter and having time to value and enjoy them. It is a search for simplicity and the contentment that goes with it.'

Whilst I read this book during a camping trip last Summer, the messages have stayed with me:

'It seems', I said, as we stood in the dappled evening shade of the beech trees, the dogs milling around our legs, 'that contentment and simplicity are intrinsic. That the reason so many of us in Western society are not content is that we live lives that are over-crowded and over-complicated. We've confused simplicity with convenience. But convenience doesn't seem to bring happiness.'

Kate Humble

In the rush of our lives, we can all be guilty of buying things for convenience and equating this to happiness. However, this book explores sustainability, working with nature and building communities. It was definitely not about an easy life and in many instances meant hard, but rewarding, work. As a Christian, for me this is about remembering Jesus' promise of 'life in all its fullness' (John 10:10) and making time for our relationship with God. Incidentally, it is linked to the Church of England Vision for Education stands: wisdom, hope, community and dignity.

The concept of a 'Cycle of Grace' was introduced to me at a Church of England Conference and has proved useful ever since; both personally and working with others in our school community.

It was original created by Frank Lake, a clinical psychiatrist aiming to support clergy in being more effective in understanding and accepting the psychological origins of parishioners' personal difficulties. It can also be related to Jesus' example. Jesus knew who he was and accepted this. Yet, it took 40 days in the desert thinking about this and the support of John the Baptist. Importantly, he sustained himself taking time away from the crowds to reflect and pray. He could then identify the significant work he had to do. He did not simply start with the outcomes and what needed to be achieved. How often do we celebrate our strengths? How often do we accept who we are? How often do we give time for sustenance – solitude, prayer, time with friends, time in nature, time for moving on. . . We need to make time for these things.

This has a lot to do with rhythms, habits and routines in life. Our routine can be doing the same things at set times every day or having things you want to do included daily, rather than fitting them in when we have the time. It is all about choosing how you spend your time with intention, choosing experience over material things, decluttering and nurturing self, others and nature (caring for God's world). Some of the daily routines that support simple living are meditation, exercise (walk in the woods), reading, journaling, limited social media time, planning to grow your own or eat healthier less processed foods. Even daily chores (including washing up or emptying the dishwasher) can also be viewed differently. All of these things can help to bring focus and order our lives; helping to make our lives simpler. The simplest of tasks can bring a sense of achievement. Be mindful of this feeling. Remember that choices become habits that can bring daily happiness and fulfilment.

This poem "Leisure" by William Henry Davies was written over a hundred years ago, but I think that it is so relevant to today. It is about how the hectic pace of modern life can take its toll on the human spirit. Many of you will know this from Centre Parcs advertising!

What is this life, if full of care,
We have no time to stand and
stare?

No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep or cows.

No time to see when wood we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.

No time to see in broad daylight
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.

No time to turn at Beauty
glance,
And watch her feet how they can
dance,

No time to wait till her mouth
can
Enrich that smile her eyes began.

A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and
stare.

Take a moment to think about how you could make a small change to your daily life that would bring sustenance and renewal. Commit to this change now.

Let us pray:

Dear God,

We thank you for your faithfulness and goodness.

Help us intentionally focus on the things that are most important.

Focus are lives to simply, humbly accept ourselves for who we are, celebrate our strengths, serve others and trust in you.

God of hope, fill us with happiness, joy and peace as we trust in you.

May we overflow with hope, by the power of the Holy Spirit.

May we experience life in all its fullness and share this blessing with others; as we strive to make the world a better place.

In your name we pray.

Amen.

Deputy Headteacher
